McLaren Americas Opens $10 Million U.S. Distribution Hub at Tradepoint Atlantic

New facility establishes Baltimore as the single point of entry for McLaren supercars bound for the U.S. and Canada.

SPARROWS POINT, Md. — McLaren Americas celebrated the grand opening of its first U.S. Vehicle Processing Center (VPC) at Tradepoint Atlantic on Oct. 6, establishing a dedicated hub for the British supercar manufacturer's North American distribution. The 50,000-square-foot facility represents a $10 million investment, McLaren's largest commitment in the U.S. It will serve as the single point of entry for McLaren vehicles bound for the United States and Canada.

Gov. Wes Moore joined McLaren CEO Nick Collins, Chief Commercial Officer Henrik Wilhelmsmeyer, Chief Quality Officer Jochen Schnez, McLaren Americas President Nicolas Brown, and Tradepoint Atlantic Managing Director Kerry Doyle for the opening. Guests watched demonstrations of the VPC's capabilities firsthand, alongside a curated lineup of McLaren supercars.

Located at Tradepoint Atlantic in Baltimore County, Md., the facility will support distribution to McLaren's 26 U.S. dealerships in the company's largest market. The investment brings specialized automotive operations and skilled employment to Sparrows Point, strengthening Baltimore's role in the global automotive supply chain.

"McLaren's investment puts Baltimore County at the center of its North American distribution operations," said Tradepoint Atlantic Managing Director Kerry Doyle. "For our region, that means skilled jobs and a vital role in the operations of a global automotive brand. We're proud to welcome McLaren to Tradepoint Atlantic and support its growth here."

The facility provides a dedicated base for vehicle preparation, inspection, and distribution, creating skilled positions in automotive technical services, paint, and logistics.

McLaren Americas President Nicolas Brown said, "This investment is another strong vote of confidence in the Port of Baltimore and reinforces our region's longstanding prominence as one of the nation's premier gateways for vehicle imports and automotive logistics. We look forward to supporting McLaren's growth here and celebrating the jobs, investment and economic activity this new facility will bring to our region."

Tradepoint Atlantic's industrial infrastructure and access to marine, rail and highway transport support the state's ability to compete for global investment and the jobs and commerce it brings. McLaren's decision to anchor its U.S. and Canadian distribution at Sparrows Point demonstrates that advantage and strengthens the Port of Baltimore's role as an economic engine for Maryland.
